HELLA receives three awards from prestigious local and international car manufacturers

- The awards were given by CHANGAN New Energy, Chery and Volvo for its excellent service in 2022
- HELLA is one of the suppliers that stood out from more than a thousand other companies in the awards

HELLA, the automotive supplier operating under the FORVIA umbrella brand, has received three customer awards from prestigious local and international car manufacturers. In this context, HELLA received the CHANGAN New Energy SHENLAN Collaboration Award, the Chery Collaborative Innovation Special Contribution Award as well as the Volvo Supply Chain Resilience Award, for its excellent service in the past year.

In the calendar year 2022, which was characterized by challenges such as the COVID-19 pandemic, semiconductor bottlenecks, as well as rising raw material costs, HELLA successfully provided excellent support to ensure the ongoing production at its customers, by an efficient and reasonable local production layout, adequate supply of innovative products and rapid response to customer demands. At the same time, relying on its leading technical strength, innovative product solutions and operational excellence, HELLA supported customers to build a sustainable supply chain and to achieve a smarter, cleaner and more comfortable driving experience. For this reason, HELLA is one of the suppliers that stood out from more than a thousand other companies in the awards.

"As a close partner of automakers, we are very pleased to receive these awards, especially as they directly come from our esteemed customers. This is a true testament to HELLA's strong capability and resilience to support all of our local customers in China despite of the challenges in 2022", said Binyi Bai, Executive Vice President Electronics APAC and a Member of the Electronics Executive Board at HELLA. "We will take the customer recognition as the driving force to continue our close collaboration with our
